

THE THINGS
PARENTS SAY
AT BASKETBALL GAMES

A Zine

I have never gone to kids' basketball games but now my kid is playing on a team, so I am having this experience for the first time.

I have always heard that parents in the bleachers say some crazy stuff but I always assumed this was an exaggeration.

It is not an exaggeration.

Why do these people come to games if they are always this unhappy about it?

And what must their kids think, having to listen to this stuff the entire game?

And what is my kid thinking?

Does he wish that I was shouting this same stuff all the time?

I don't think they are there for their kids. I think they are there for themselves.

This makes me feel sad for the kids and for the parents, too.
